SaveSave for later These worksheets introduce basic comprehension concepts and skills such as identifying the main ideas of a text and their supporting details, relating cause and effect, making predictions based on what has been read and distinguishing between fact and fiction and between fact and opinion. Some students will need help in reading the texts and exercises. Completing these comprehension exercises (with or without assistance) will help improve literacy skills. Compare and contrast: examine what details characters have in common Main ideas & supporting details: what is the text mostly about? What details make it more interesting? Sequencing: put events from a text in logical order Story elements: identify the characters, setting, problem, solution and author's purpose of a text Cause and effect worksheets: identifying the cause and effect of different events Fact vs opinion: identify whether statements are facts or opinions. Prediction worksheets: predicting what will happen next in a story R34.50 Grade3HappyEd RI 1.50 Aladdin Learning Solutions R46.00 Die Leerfloekie R23.00 KINDEERGARTEN R34.50 Home School Genie Third grade is a big year for reading comprehension. Your child will gather a deeper understanding of the meaning of what they are reading as they expand their vocabulary skills and build knowledge. They will also be exposed to more challenging books, articles, poetry, and online research. They will also learn to be more independent learners and thinkers as they receive less assistance from adults. Before the end of third grade, your child should be reading with greater accuracy and fluency. The following activities should assist you as you help your third grader improve his literacy skills. 3rd grade kids will love this sticky note project that teaches them about character traits. Providing students with a visual representation allows them to more easily compare the traits of different characters.
